

FREE

METRO

LONDON

Wednesday, December 15, 1999

editorial@londonmetro.co.uk

SHOP SPOT

WHAT'S NEW IN STORE ...

For clubbers who like to know make-up essentials are close by but don't want to cramp their style with a bum bag, the Bullet Band (above) is a make-up holder you can strap round your arm. There are pockets for lipstick, cosmetics and a wallet. The band, which costs £5, comes ready-loaded with a Spectacular Sheer Lipstick in Opal which can be used as a lip, cheek and eye highlighter. Call 0181 952 2323 for stockists or mail order.

Pepe comes up with a funky, in-your-face idea for a T-shirt for those seeking self-expression and individuality in their apparel. Unwrap the black T-shirt, grab the gold pen and fill in the blanks on the shirt after these words: Embrace ... reject ... try ... the possibilities are endless. The T-shirt is available in limited quantities only from Pepe's flagship store in Neal Street, Covent Garden until December 31. Price £15.

Past and present design met across the century when Coca Cola commissioned a stylish, limited-edition bottle opener (left) from contemporary young designer Michael Anastassiades. No, this isn't another Millennium piece – Coca Cola is celebrating the return of its iconic glass bottle. £22.95. Available by mail order from Purves & Purves on 0870 603 0205.

Fancy a takeaway? Pizza? Chinese? Champagne? Home delivery reaches new heights with Perrier-Jouet's Champagne Hotline (Tel. 0181 250 1900). For only £35, central Londoners will be able to enjoy an ice-cold bottle of champagne delivered directly to their door. The hotline runs from 11pm to 4am until December 19.

Drop that hairdryer right now. Celebrity hairdresser Errol Douglas launches a collection of pretty hairclips (above) decorated with crystal and bead clusters to create evening hairstyles without fuss. Price £15 per pair (assorted colours and designs). Call 0171 235 0110 for mail order.