Time To Reflect

How many times have you struggled to apply makeup with the correct light? Kumiko by Japanese maker Michiru Tanaka serves the dual purpose of an illuminator as well as a mirror. Named after the traditional patterns found in the country’s woodwork, these tiles can be arranged in any number of configurations.

SHOT STORY

Getting good coffee got a lot easier and we have Michael Anastassiades to thank. The EDIDA 2014 winning British creative partnered with Carl Aubock workshop to craft compact mills composed of three cylinders each that grind beans to produce fine powder for the brew. The miniature, custom developed gear mechanism was procured from a Swiss manufacturer. Website: www.michaelanastassiades.com

WINNERS TOGETHER

When French designer Philippe Starck was approached to envision a medal for the 2024 Olympics, he immediately thought about the fact that champions don’t triumph alone – they compete and also win as teams. So he imagined a unit of medallions that can be detached and shared by the victors with their support system.
